(Narrator): Listen to a passage about Nicolás. You will answer questions 3 through 5 based on this passage.

(Pause 3 seconds.)

(Man): Nicolás and his parents were in San Juan at the Luis Muñoz Marín International Airport, waiting for the flight that would take them to LaGuardia Airport in New York City. When it was time to board, Nicolás had a seat by the window. His parents were across the aisle, and so he felt quite grown up. He watched the ground retreat as the plane rose in the sky. He could see the ground for a while, then the beautiful blue of the ocean, and then the plane was surrounded by clouds. This lasted for about ten minutes, and then they were again in blue sky with the white of the clouds below them, as if it were the ground. Nicolás felt as if they were floating in a magical land, a place he'd never been before. He knew there'd be another new and magical place to see when they landed in New York and went to Uncle Juan and Aunt Julieta's home in Queens. His mother had explained that Queens was a part of New York City. Nicolás had seen movies with New York City in them. It looked so crowded and busy! He was definitely looking forward to all of the adventures he hoped to have in New York City. For now, he settled back in his seat and just watched the clouds as they passed by. He hoped the clouds would disappear at some point so that he could see the ocean again. The flight would be almost four hours long, and he didn't want to stare at clouds forever.
